December 2015 – No. 34

50 Years of CCLS and 10 Years on the Russell Long Chair

2015 marked the golden jubilee of the Center of Civil Law Studies and the tenth anniversary of the appointment of Professor Olivier Moréteau as the first holder of the Russell B. Long Eminent Scholars Academic Chair.

overview of fifty years of civil law scholarship at LSU.

On the occasion, Dr. Agustín Parise wrote Golden Jubilee of the Center of Civil Law Studies: Celebrating the Development of Legal Science in Louisiana, recently published in Volume 8 of the Journal of Civil Law Studies. This 29-page well-researched article (176 footnotes) offers a full

Journal of Civil Law Studies, Volume 8, No. 1

Vol. 8 #1 of the JCLS is available at <http://digitalcommons.law.lsu.edu/jcls/>. This issue features two articles by LSU LL.M. graduates: the above mentioned CCLS Golden Jubilee article, by Dr. Agustín Parise, and Drawing the Line of the Scope of the Duty of Care in American Negligence and French Fault-Based Tort Liability, by Karel Roynette.

The issue also features papers presented at a conference on same-sex marriage in December 2013 at La Roche-sur-Yon, France, featuring China (Yuan Fang), France (Dominique Garreau), Italy (Enrica Bracchi & Carolina Simoncini), Spain (Ana Conde), and the United States (Olivier Moréteau). A student essay by Kacie Gray and a case note by Tiffany Bush give additional perspectives on same-sex unions in the United States.

Civil Law in the World invites us to visit the rise of doctrine in Chile (Carlos Felipe Amunátegui Perelló) and personal injury law in Poland (Ewa Bagińska).

There is much else in this issue, like a note on objective good faith in contract law, case notes (Civil Law in Louisiana), book reviews, and the title on Matrimonial Regimes of the Louisiana Civil Code in a bilingual English and French format.

Submissions are very welcome for forthcoming volumes 9 (2016) and 10 (2017); please email to moreteau@lsu.edu.

About the LL.M.

The Paul M. Hebert Law Center at Louisiana State University was founded in 1956, and is the only law school in the United States with fully-developed programs in both civil and common law, matching the needs of global practice.

LSU Law is consistently ranked among the top public law school graduate programs and the third best-value law school in the nation.

When you add the unique and distinct culture of Louisiana to the strong academic curriculum and personal attention of the Law Center, you get a program that can't be beat.

LSU Law provides a combination of advantages to be found nowhere else:

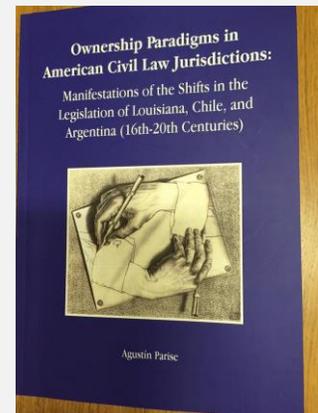

- A common law and civil law faculty with an international profile;
- The possibility to study the civil law in English;
- One of the best comparative law libraries in the world;
- Highly competitive rates, minimizing the financial investment;
- Affordable housing and living costs;
- A unique and friendly environment for international students;
- Not a money-maker but a truly small-group learning environment maximizing immersion with U.S. students.

CCLS Research Associates, Past and Present

Dr. Agustín Parise received his law degree from the University of Buenos Aires and a LL.M. in Comparative Law from the LSU Law Center. From 2006 to 2010, he worked as a Research Associate at the Center of Civil Law Studies, and is the Executive Editor of our Journal of Civil Law Studies. He received a Doctorate in Law from the University of Buenos Aires, and after a year in Germany (Max Plank Institut in Frankfurt and Hamburg), he joined the faculty of the University of Maastricht School of Law. A widely published scholar of comparative law and legal history, Dr. Agustín Parise received a second doctorate from the University of Maastricht, having publicly defended, on November 10, 2015, his dissertation on "Ownership Paradigms in the Legislation of Louisiana, Chile, and Argentina (16th -20th century)."

Jason Maison-Marcheux is a graduate of the Paris 1 (Panthéon-Sorbonne) University Faculty of Law. He wrote his Master's research paper on the centrality of the Louisiana Civil Code and French cultural influences. He joins the Center of Civil Law Studies as our new Research Associate, and will work on the implementation of the Louisiana Civil Code Translation Project and the publication of the papers of last year's conference on "The Louisiana Civil Code Translation Project: Enhancing Visibility and Promoting the Civil Law in English;" both of these projects are sponsored by the Partner University Fund (PUF).

The Juris Diversitas 2016 Annual Conference at LSU

Unity and/or Diversity

An International, Interdisciplinary Conference on Comparative Law

May 30 - June 1, 2016, Louisiana State University Law Center, Baton Rouge

The Theme: Comparative legal studies have long been perceived as an engine pulling legal traditions and systems towards convergence, harmonization, and unification. Today, legal pluralism pushes towards the recognition of human and social diversity. Does this mean that we have to choose between unity and diversity, Jus unum or juris diversitas? To what extent do pluralistic societies embrace or reject harmonization and uniformity, or simply ignore them? Do we unify or add layers, increasing the complexity of legal orders? Does history reflect a move from diversity to unity or an ongoing conflict between the two? What makes unity successful or sustainable? This is an invitation to discuss, in an interdisciplinary way, the development of laws and social norms, in the dialectical tension between the ontological unity of human beings and mankind and the plurality of individual aspirations and social arrangements.

Submissions: Panel proposals and interdisciplinary presentations are strongly encouraged, as is the participation of doctoral students and scholars from outside of the discipline of law. While parallel sessions of three twenty-minute presentations will be used, we encourage more original session structures.

Proposals should be in English or in French. Proposals of approximately 250 words (or 1000 words for panel proposals) should be submitted to Professor Salvatore Mancuso at JDLSU2016@gmail.com by January 8, 2016, with a short biography listing major or relevant publications. Make this a single Word document with minimal formatting, so that proposal and biography can be copied easily into the conference program.

Registration fees: €200 or €125 for Juris Diversitas members paid up for 2016. Membership and fee payment information is available on the Juris Diversitas Blog (<http://jurisdiversitas.blogspot.com/>). Please note that fees don't cover travel, accommodation, or the conference dinner (€50).
